

Scholarships for the European Forum Alpbach 2012

Scholarships are available for students and recent graduates up to 30 years of age. We welcome applications from all countries and academic disciplines. Our main objective is to ensure the participation of many young people in the entire event. The combination of academic seminars followed by symposiums and short courses on specific topics reflects the special character of the European Forum Alpbach.

Please take into account that there are different scholarship programmes for the Alpbach Summer Schools on European Integration and on European Health and Social Systems in Transition, and that you can apply only either for the European Forum Alpbach or for one of the Summer Schools.

Deadline for scholarship application: May 08, 2012 (postmark)

Scholarship Value

Usually the scholarship covers tuition fees only. For applicants from Central, East and Southeast Europe, as well as from other less affluent countries, a contribution to the accommodation expenses and, as an exception, per-diems may also be included. Travel costs have to be covered by the participants.

Students and young graduates who have been scholarship holders in the past may apply for a return scholarship. The scholarship comprises 90% of the participation fee; 10% of the fee as well as the costs for board and lodging have to be covered by the scholarship holder. If you apply for a return scholarship, you need to hand in the application form and a letter of motivation only.

Application Requirements

Please make sure that the application submitted is complete and that you send all documents by regular mail. Applications via e-mail cannot be accepted.

Motivation statement

Please submit a one-page text which explains your reasons for applying. Please give evidence of your ongoing interest in the contents and topics of the European Forum Alpbach.

The essential features to be included in the motivation statement are:

- a) An exploration of your views and ideas concerning the European integration process, and of the fundamental ideas of the European Forum Alpbach;
- b) A comment on your personal thoughts and ideas about the topics of the current programme.

All applicants composing a contribution to the project "Europe 2057" (see www.alpbach.org/scholarships) will be allowed to limit the letter of motivation to the personal part (b), if the project contribution is attached to the application.

Curriculum Vitae

In addition to listing your academic education, the curriculum vitae should give evidence of your practical experience and extra-curricular activities.

Certificates and Transcripts

Please attach copies of relevant school and university certificates, as well as a transcript covering all credits obtained during the last academic year, in order to prove your academic progress. If your transcripts/certificates are made out in a language other than German or English, you need to submit a translation. This translation need not be certified.

German or English Proficiency (non-native speakers only)

Please enclose proof of your proficiency in German or English (minimum: European level B2 or IELTS 6.5). Any conclusive proof will be admitted. If your certificates are made out in a language other than German or English, you need to submit a translation. This translation need not be certified.

Selection Procedure

All applications will be assessed through careful consideration of the documents submitted. The candidates will be selected by a committee chaired by Prof. Erich Gornik, Vice-President of the European Forum Alpbach.

The following criteria will be taken into account: content of the motivation statement, academic achievements, professional experience, extra-curricular activities, and overall appearance and orderliness of the application. 100 points can be achieved. For every failed application in the past 5 points will be added, for every successful application 10 points will be subtracted.

Selection Results

The scholarship holders will be informed via e-mail at the beginning of July at the latest. Please make sure to mention an e-mail address in the application form that is valid from March to August. The European Forum Alpbach disposes of an adequate allocation of student accommodation and will handle your room booking if you are granted a scholarship. Therefore, it is not necessary for you to reserve accommodation prior to the announcement of the selection results.
